

🗨️ In Islam's viewpoint, the society resembles one body. It is like one large human who is free from conflicts, social classes or categories. This ample man is made of individuals with disparate competencies and capacities, yet, sympathizing, cooperating and exchanging services between themselves, and as such they complete each other by sourcing from one another. Each individual will be elevated according to what he had offered to his fellow man 🗨️

Imam Musa Sadr

